Newsletter 22 - 24th April 2020

Well what an eventful few weeks we have had since we last saw each other in school! As you have been made aware from the most recent letter from our CEO, Alun Williams, we are not expecting to return to school within the next few weeks. I want to take this opportunity again to thank you for your support and hard work at this very challenging time. We do appreciate it is not easy and ask you to do what you can; your well-being, safety and happiness is paramount. We have loved receiving the photos, emails and messages of support. Please know that we are here to support you in any way we can, just drop us an email and one of us will get back to you. We will be calling all families in due course and would love to be able to speak to the children as well if possible.

The newsletter is going to take a slightly different form over the next few weeks. My intention is to use it to showcase some of the excellent work that has been happening at home. This week some work completed by Owl and Eagle children

Mrs Phillips

Moe's mythical creature and story

Mr. M Baddy had to be rolled out of the room to the hospital by one of his guards because he swelled up from the cat hair.

Just as he was leaving the Mad General said to him that the Adominous was in the Atlantic Ocean and he wanted him to find it.

So after the doctors at the hospital stopped Mr. M Baddy swelling any more so that he didn't POP! like a balloon, they set sail to the Atlantic Ocean in a war submarine.

A BIG RACE

Meanwhile Tom Bond was also setting sail in a sailboat to find the Adominous. Tom Bond had a bit of a harder time; two weeks after setting sail he had an encounter with a tsunami which sucked him up and his boat and spat him out. The boat landed on a rock island and exploded and Tom Bond had to swim the rest of the way and on a raft made out of a bit of the boat that had landed on his head.

So Mr. M Baddy and the Mad General arrived there first.

THE ADOMINOUS IS FOUND

When they found the Adominous it slammed them off with its tail and the submarine went two feet out of the water and exploded! Mr. M Baddy died!!!!!!! The Mad General survived. But Tom Bond as he wasn't on anything just got a sore tummy from hitting the water so hard.

The Mad General and Tom Bond swam with all their mite to get to the Adominous first. Though the Adominous was not there!

When they turned around it was there with its mouth open showing its gargantuan teeth! They both screamed knowing that they were much slower swimmers than the Adominous. But the Adominous seemed to like them.....but that wasn't the case!

It was planning a surprise attack on them.

So it gobbled them both up!

The Mad General was chewed but Tom Bond wasn't so he survived. He spent two days in there feasting on only coral that the Adominous chewed until one day he crept out while the Adominous was yawning in the dead of night. He swam all the way back home to Australia.

When he got home the Adominous was on the beach growling at everyone and gobbling them up!

THE END.....for now!
