World Book Day/ Industrial Action

Dear parents/carers,

World Book Day/ Industrial Action

On Thursday 2nd March, it is World Book Day. It is also a planned day of NEU industrial action. If industrial action does indeed go ahead, we will be open and all children should attend as usual. However, there will be an impact on some of our provisions; therefore, we will be celebrating World Book Day on Friday 3rd March with a range of activities in school. Children are invited to come into school dressed up as a character, book, theme or word of their choice.

Extreme Reading

We would like to challenge our children to demonstrate their love of reading by reading in 'extreme', funny or unusual places. We would love to have some photos for a display inside school. Please email any photos to the school office to become part of the wall display. Parents can google 'extreme reading' for some inspiration. We will, of course, be explaining to the children that by 'extreme' we do not mean dangerous!

As we are celebrating all things books, I would like to remind our families that regular reading at home is really important. It is the best way parents and carers can support their child academically. I am delighted that today we have lots of Book Worm certificates to give out in our regular Friday celebration assembly. Every time a child earns a certificate they will also earn an entry into a prize draw at the end of term for a lego set!

Have a lovely weekend.

Best wishes,

Alun Randell
